HERALDRY SKIRMISH

THE DYING LANDS

A competitive GM-less PvPvE fantasy tabletop miniature skirmish game

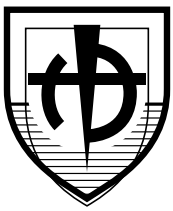

Release Candidate 491 (RC491)

Banners rot in the rain. Shrines sink into the mud. Oaths are broken, kings are buried, and the roads between settlements grow more dangerous with each passing season. Yet the ruins of the world still glitter with coin, relics, and forgotten power, and the desperate, the devout, the greedy, and the doomed continue to march into darkness to claim them.

A standard competitive game uses 4 Heroes per side on a 36"×36" battlefield. It is usually played by 2 players, but supports 2–8 players by dividing control of each side's Heroes among allied players.

Heraldry Skirmish supports solo and cooperative play.

A typical single game, called an adventure, lasts about 60–90 minutes (4–8 rounds). A typical campaign spans 16–18 adventures and is usually split across 8–18 play sessions.

Release Candidate 491 (RC491)